Feriye Restaurant

During the 19th century, Ottoman Sultans started to move from famous Topkapi Palace which located at the old town to Beylerbeyi, Dolmabahçe and Ciragan Palaces that are located at the shores of Bosphorus and considered as the summer residence of the Sultans together with their exotic entourage.

Feriye was also built in 19th century as an Ottoman Military Control Station for the protection of these palaces.

In 1995, the historical and very beautiful building was totally restored and converted into an upscale restaurant with excellent location providing the excellent samples of traditional Turkish cuisine and magnificent view of the Bosphorus and Asian continent.
