Reji Kalyon

Istanbul has been surrounded by the City Walls since the day it was founded on 7th century BC by the King Byzas. Then throughout the Roman, Byzantine and Ottoman times, the City Walls kept on expanding. Today it is the longest walls in Europe with a length of 21 km (13 miles).

The superior 4-star Hotel, Kalyon has the privilege of hosting a considerable part of these ancient City Walls in its garden.

Kalyon is located at the European shores of the Sea of Marmara providing exclusive view of Asian continent from Europe.

The hotel converted this section into a unique venue integrating the historical Istanbul Peninsula with the Marmara Sea.
